ATHLETICS The heroes of nations are made on the track and in the field of the Olympic Games, including the Marathon - the event which best encapsulates the Olympic spirit, both ancient and modern.

AQUATICS Swimming events were contested at the 1896 Athens Olympic Games, and have grown in popularity ever since. While some Olympians race for gold, others seek victory in Diving, Synchronised Swimming and Water Polo.

MODERN PENTATHLON The Modern Pentathlon was designed by the founder of the Modern Olympic Movement, Baron Pierre de Coubertin, and introduced in 1912. It comprises fencing, swimming, pistol, running and riding.

CANOE / KAYAK With origins from the Eskimos and North American Indians, Canoeing / Kayaking became an official Olympic sport at the 1936 Berlin Olympic Games. Balance and power are essential, with events conducted over 500 and 1000 metres.
